BERRYVILLE TOWN COUNCIL
Personnel Committee Meeting
February 12, 2018

Re-Appointments

Michelle Marino was appointed to the Berryville Planning Commission in April of 2014. She lives in Ward 1 and would like to continue as a member of the Commission. Ms. Marino was instrumental in vetting the Tourism Zone Incentives in 2016. She also participated on the Comprehensive Plan Update Committee.

Dr. Dandridge Allen was recommended for appointment to the Berryville Board of Zoning Appeals in January of 2010. While Council makes the recommendation, the Clarke County Circuit Court does the final appointment. He was reappointed upon the request of the Town Council in March of 2014 and has requested an additional appointment. The BZA last heard a request in May of 2014.

Architectural Review Board

With the resignation of Rachael Worsley in late 2017, a position on the Berryville Architectural Review Board has opened. The five member Board is represented by citizens or owners of property within the Town. Two members shall be property owners within a historic district (local or national) in the Town. It is strongly encouraged that a member be a registered architect and that two members have some training in architecture, American studies, or other related field.

The members of the Board shall serve as such without compensation. The ARB meets on a regular basis with most reviews relating to signage, additions to structures, and exterior renovations including doors, windows, and fences. Once approved, applicants are issued a Certificate of Appropriateness which describes the request and references any items that were conditions of the approval. Their meetings are held at 12:30pm on the first Wednesday of each month. If no agenda items are in front of the Board, then the chair will cancel the respective meeting.

Reviews and conformance are based on US Secretary of the Interior's Standards for Rehabilitation. The application packet, which includes a submission checklist; guidelines for obtaining a Certificate of Appropriateness; Secretary of the Interior's Standards overview; local resource list; application for sign review; and application for architectural review.

The following residents are interested in the Board position and will be interviewed in the following order:

7:00pm - Elizabeth Couture

7:15pm – Carl Maples

7:30pm – Satkuna Mathur

Tree Board

The Berryville Tree Board has one position open due to Julie Abrera's resignation on February 6, 2018. The newly-established Board meets the first Wednesday of the month at 7:30pm. They have been discussing a number of items including a tree canopy survey; a tree planting to replace a tree in Rose Hill Park on May 5 to coincide with the opening of the Farmers' Market; and working with Berryville Main Street to upgrade Hogan's Alley located between West Main and Crow streets.

The Architectural Review Board must receive enough information on which to base its decision. Applicants will need to complete an application provided by the Berryville Planning Department. You must provide photographs, drawings and plans or other documentation as required by the ARB. These submissions do not have to be prepared by professionals, but must be easy to understand by the board members and staff. The application describes the requirements for each type of submission. There may be additional permits and fees required depending on the request. Zoning permits are required for structures, fences, signs, site plans, and additions. Applicants are expected to be present at the Architectural Review Board meeting to present the request and answer any questions board members may have.

Project Checklist

Contact information is located on the following pages.

1. Refer to the Guidelines for Issuing a Certificate of Appropriateness on the following page.
2. Berryville's national and local historic districts may allow for federal, state or local tax abatement and/or loan programs. Check with the Clarke County Historical Association or Stephens City office of the Virginia Department of Historic Resources to determine which program, if any, would benefit the project.
3. Check the Berryville Zoning Ordinance to make sure that your planned use is allowed and what other approvals may be required.
4. Building permits are issued by the Clarke County Building Department. Once the application is approved by the Architectural Review Board, Town staff will issue a zoning permit and Certificate of Appropriateness for the project. It is recommended that all applicants meet with the building official early in the project if you are doing structural renovations.
5. The Stephens City office of the Virginia Department of Historic Resources has names of contractors who have worked with historic buildings and materials. They can also offer advice on technical preservation issues and methods of construction.
6. Review the Secretary of the Interior's Standards for Rehabilitation in this packet. These ten standards MUST be followed if using federal or state tax credits. The ARB follows these standards when reviewing applications for Certificates of Appropriateness.

BERRYVILLE HISTORIC DISTRICT

GUILDELINES FOR ISSUING A CERTIFICATE OF APPROPRIATENESS

Project plans must adequately address and respond to each of the 18 guidelines listed below in order to receive a Certificate of Appropriateness.

In instances where these guidelines discuss or imply compatibility with existing structures, such compatibility should be:

- primarily with contributing structures in National, State or local historic districts in Berryville; and
- secondarily with existing structures within 300 feet of the proposed site.

ARCHITECTURAL STYLE – No specific architectural style shall be imposed in the administration of the historic district ordinance.

Buildings should be designed as single entities, with the character and design of the primary façade continued on side and rear elevations. Architectural elements from widely different styles should not be mixed on a single building.

Design themes unrelated to the traditions of the Berryville area should be avoided. For example, buildings which attempt to look like a Bavarian cottage, Spanish mission, Asian pagoda, Polynesian village, Tudor mansion, waterfront shanty, etc., bear no relationship to the history or architecture of this area.

HEIGHT – It is important along street facades that the height of new buildings, especially those between two contributing structures, conform to the average height of other buildings in the block.

PROPORTION – New construction should relate to the dominant proportions of buildings in the immediate area. Overall proportion – the total ratio of height to width – is the most important consideration. Also important is the overall ratio of solid space to void – that is: the mass of the walls and the places where this mass has been broken up by openings for windows and doors.

SCALE – Scale is determined by several factors including cornice or eave height, the elevation of the first floor, floor-to-floor heights, and the proportions determined by the size and arrangement of door and window openings and porch column spacing. The scale and mass of a proposed project should relate to nearby buildings or open space surrounding it.

OPENINGS – New construction should take into account the ratio of solid to void. The pattern and overall proportion of openings should relate to other buildings in the district. Large expanses of blank walls facing a street are generally not compatible with the Berryville area.

ORIENTATION – The orientation and setback of the main facades of new construction should respect the precedent set by existing buildings in the surrounding district. Commercial and office structures should direct their primary orientation and entrance to the major adjacent public right-of-way from which traffic arrives to the structure.

ENTRANCES – The spacing and proportion of entrances and porches along the street help determine the rhythm of the streetscape. New construction of entrances should continue, not disrupt, this existing rhythm. Building entrances should be clearly defined, and pedestrian walkways clearly associated with the entrance.

RHYTHM – Rhythm is the repetition of architectural elements such as doors, windows, porches and cornice decorations. A building or project should continue, not disrupt, the architectural rhythm already established in the district.

SPACING – The spacing between buildings helps determine the rhythm of the streetscape. New construction should be spaced to continue the existing spacing pattern of the surrounding area.

MATERIALS – In order not to disrupt the visual quality of the neighborhood, an effort shall be made to use traditional materials that are predominantly used in the area. Use of inappropriate materials, including reflective glass, metal wall panels, plastic, fiberglass stone, or fiberglass brick, should be avoided.

TEXTURE – The texture of materials used in new construction should conform to existing texture patterns such as brick, stucco, horizontal or vertical wood siding, rough rock, or smooth sand. Introducing non-traditional textures is discouraged.

COLOR – The predominant colors of any unpainted materials proposed should resemble predominant tones in the district. Paint color shall not be considered as part of these guidelines, though the use of trim colors to accent architectural details is encouraged.

DETAILS – Architectural details are very important in maintaining the character of a district; new construction should employ some of the details typical of the district. These may include: cornice design, window trim, chimney shapes, shutters, door paneling, porches, railing and fence designs. Architectural details should be continued on any side or rear building façade which is visible from a public right-of-way. Any façade which presents a blank wall must be acceptably screened. Small attachments to buildings (such as meters, telephone and cable connections) should be placed so as not to detract from the overall project. Large attachments (such as air conditioning units, fuel tanks, antennas and satellite dishes) should either be screened or placed out of view from any public right-of-way.

ROOFS – Roof shape, pitch, and material on new projects should be similar to existing roofs in the district.

WALLS AND FENCES – These items can add visual cohesiveness to a project. Use of traditional materials such as wood, stone, brick, iron, or evergreens is encouraged. Chain link fences, including those with slats, are discouraged, particularly when visible from a public right-of-way.

SIGNS – The size and height of signs should reflect the slower automobile speeds and pedestrian scale of the district. Projecting and other wall-mounted signs are encouraged in the downtown commercial area. Monument signs are encouraged, rather than pole-mounted signs. Signs should reflect the buildings to which they refer, and be part of an overall landscape plan.

Internally lit signs are not appropriate where they would refer to or be placed on buildings on the National Historic Register list, except those described as noncontributing. (5/95)

Please refer to Section 307 Sign Regulations of the Town of Berryville Zoning Ordinance.

OFF-STREET PARKING – Large expanses of off-street parking should be avoided. Parking areas should be divided into smaller units through landscaping or building location. Walkways should be delineated by the use of special paving materials.

BUILDING ARRANGEMENT – When several structures are planned on a single site, structures should complement one another, and reflect an overall plan for the appearance of the property. Commercial and office development should cluster buildings into organized groups.

ORIGINALLY ADOPTED: JULY 1993

AMENDED: MAY 1995

THE SECRETARY OF THE INTERIOR'S STANDARDS FOR REHABILITATION

The guidelines in this application are based on The Secretary of the Interior's Standards for Rehabilitation and Guidelines for Rehabilitating Historic Buildings. They express a basic rehabilitation credo of "retain, repair, and replace." In other words, do not remove a historic element, do not replace an element if it can be repaired, and replace an element that has been removed or cannot be repaired.

First developed in 1979 and most recently revised in 1995, these guidelines have been continually expanded and refined. They are used by the National Park Service to determine if the rehabilitation of a historic building has been undertaken in a manner that is sensitive to its historic integrity. The guidelines are very broad by nature since they apply to the rehabilitation of any contributing building in any historic district throughout the United States.

1. A property will be used as it was historically or be given a new use that requires minimal change to its distinctive materials, features, spaces and spatial relationships.
2. The historic character of a property will be retained and preserved. The removal of distinctive materials or alteration of features, spaces, and spatial relationships that characterize a property will be avoided.
3. Each property will be recognized as a physical record of its time, place and use. Changes that create a false sense of historical development, such as adding conjectured features or elements from other historic properties, will not be undertaken.
4. Changes to a property that have acquired historic significance in their own right will be retained and preserved.
5. Distinctive materials, features, finishes, and construction techniques or examples of craftsmanship that characterize a property will be preserved.
6. Deteriorated historic features will be repaired rather than replaced. Where the severity of deterioration requires replacement of a distinctive features, the new features will match the old in design, color, texture, and, where possible, materials. Replacement of missing features will be substantiated by documentary and physical evidence.
7. Chemical or physical treatments, if appropriate, will be undertaken using the gentlest means possible. Treatments that cause damage to historic materials will not be used.
8. Archaeological resources will be protected and preserved in place. If such resources must be disturbed, mitigation measures will be undertaken.
9. New additions, exterior alterations, or related new construction will not destroy historic materials, features, and spatial relationships that characterize the property. The new work will be differentiated from the old and will be compatible with the historic materials, features, size, scale, proportion, and massing to protect the integrity of the property and its environment.
10. New additions and adjacent or related new construction will be undertaken in such a manner that, if removed in the future, the essential form and integrity of the historic property and its environment would be unimpaired.

Re: Application to Join Historic Architectural Review and Planning Commissions

Dear Mrs. Dickinson and Mr. Dalton:

Preserving the charm and heritage of Berryville has become important to me especially having grown up in and recently moved out of Loudoun County. The need to plan and prepare for the future of Berryville is paramount as surrounding communities grow at exponential rates. I can contribute to this effort with experience, education and professional skills as noted on my application.

Unlike prior times in my life, at this stage I have the time to invest and assist in the Historic Architectural Review Board and the Planning Commission. I gladly offer my time and abilities to augment your efforts to enhance the Town of Berryville.

Sincerely,

Liz Couture

Please attach a narrative explaining why you are interested in serving on s Town board or commission.

Attachment:

Berryville is lucky to be a town with a large proportion of historic commercial buildings and homes representing different periods and styles of architecture. In recent years walk-able communities and smaller housing have become popular trends. These trends, and the relatively inexpensive housing costs relative to what are found to the east make Berryville an attractive housing market. Regardless of how much, or little, growth Berryville experiences over the next few decades, there will most likely be a considerable amount of renovations of older homes and buildings.

It would be nice to see Berryville get through this renewal process with the historic nature of its architecture intact, including some neighborhoods that are now on the cusp of being considered historic. My experience serving on an architectural review board in a previous neighborhood, and work restoring antique furniture (pieces quite often marred by previous attempts at restoration), tells me that keeping Berryville's pristine examples of period architecture intact will prove to be somewhat challenging.

I believe I would add value serving on the Architectural Review Board. Over the last 3 years I have been engaged in restoring and adding additions to a 66-year-old house with some significant condition issues. I have an appreciation for the challenges homeowners face in renovating and restoring these structures in ways that do not detract from the structure's original styling.

I have always wanted to serve my community. Now that our lives have settled-in somewhat, it seemed the right time to step in and help in some way. I have volunteered in the past as library volunteer and hospital volunteer. Berryville is a charming town and I want to actively support it. This current volunteer position is something that I have worked in and I understand what may be the rationale surrounding it.
