Educating for the Craft of Innovative Agriculture

This is the 12th annual Forum for Rural Innovation. The purpose of the forum is to showcase new and exciting projects and programs that enhance farm or rural business profitability. The models presented at the forum also focus on conserving farmland and natural resources, and developing new approaches to rural prosperity in upscale areas where land commands premium prices.

The Forum will feature a series of presentations, with an emphasis on educating the public about the agriculture industry. Topics and exhibits have been chosen to present practical examples of successful innovative operations that could be adapted to any farm. The program will feature some of the most progressive and recognized farms, organizations and research in the United States.

Who Should Attend

The conference will offer farmers, landowners, rural business owners, local elected and appointed officials, extension educators, economic development and planning professionals an opportunity to see and hear industry leaders discuss innovative practices and methods for agricultural development.

The program is open to all, regardless of race, color, religion, sex, age, veteran status, national origin, disability or political affiliation. Persons needing reasonable accommodations for any type of disability in order to attend this program should contact 703-777-0426.
